Hey everyone

I just had a shower thought about ye olde GME wallet last night.

So I assume most of you know we are above 60.000 users on chrome and if we figure at least half of those users have activated layer 2 and 20% of the users are using it for NFT's and doing some actual interaction we should see a new revenue stream on the next quarterly report, and that is without the marketplace even being up and running.

So since I have only activated layer 2 and contributed a fraction of a dollar to this new revenue stream I wanted to ask you if you are paying gass fees to mint and transfer NFT's as well? I've seen quite some activity on SS with NFT giveaways and what not. Even people paying for others to activate their layer 2 <3

Anyways just a shower thought but since the release is this quarter we won't see the full effect before Q3 since that's the first full quarter it would have been up. Still nice that we will get new DRS numbers, I'm one of them!, and the potentially surprising ammount of money generated from just tiny gass fees.
