As the title says, everyone who currently controls the money is colluding to keep us from MOASS and our trip on the rocket. The following thoughts occurred to me last night as I was laying in bed wondering when we can pay off mortgage, and how we make it happen faster because I sure could use those sweet sweet tendies.

Need proof? Here's what I can think of off the top of my head.

\- Remember the big margin call on Robbingdahood? It was something like 3 BILLION dollars. They got a solid favor to drop that down to 700 million, and none of the agencies or banks seemed to complain.

\- Other margin calls? We all know there have been calls. Somehow miraculously they've been covered over and over allowing this bullshit to continue... at least we think they've been covered. Given above it's entirely possible that those calls were greatly reduced or perhaps not even exercised. Is there even a strict law about margin calls or is this part of their "self regulation?"

\- In the SEC report it was shown that the OCC was woefully short on deposits to cover obligations, and that was just digging into GME. We know for a fact there are other stonks working on their own squeeze.

\- There's been all sorts of delays in transfers to other brokerages, and then to Computershare. Almost like they can't find the shares (there's even been some chat screenshots to this effect). If the DTCC is truly doing their job of holding the shares this should never ever be an issue, and yet it is.

\- There's the banks quarterly earnings reports showing they are flush with cash (BEST QUARTER EVER, BRO!). Yet we've seen inflation skyrocket, and what's up with those reverse repos cranking over a trillion every day for the last month? Heck we're closing in on 1.5 trillion and will hit that on the regular pretty soon.

\- There's the SEC report basically saying all is well, and we're not going to take any action when our outstanding DD has shown all sorts of fuckery. Not just fuckery, but straight up illegal actions. Yet, nobody seems to be bothered by it other than us Apes.

\- There's those long puts that are well above the free float. That raised some red flags for us, but the agencies overseeing this can't seem to give a shit.

\- There's the fuckery with the ETFs.

\- There's that attempt to hide shit in the Brazilian banking system. I guarantee Brazil is not the only place they are attempting to hide things.

\- There's the non-existent hedge funds (I think it was iceberg or glacier or some shit like that).

\- There's the paid "speaking fees" going to government representatives.

\- There's the campaign contributions that seem to fall into the circle of families of elected officials who are pretty close (married) to people such as the CEO of NYSE, or heads of regulating bodies.

\- There's the insider trading among MM and government officials.

\- There's the people running the agencies who conveniently used to hold pretty high positions at money makers or brokers.

\- There's the massive amount of fuckery going on with Credit Suisse.

\- Something is up with BoA.

\- I'm sure we'll eventually see some new form of fuckery from Wells Fargo since they seem to specialize in fuckery (why does anyone still bank with them?)

\- There's the collapse of China housing developers, and failure to pay their bonds, but none of the banks seem to be overly concerned about it according to MSM.

\- Speaking of MSM how many times have we seen articles that are the complete opposite of reality?

\- There's the shitty jobs report, and inflation report, but the market miraculously keeps going up, but our price is stagnant or dropping.

\- There's the darkpool abuse of price suppression.

\- These agencies are "self regulating" with no legal ramifications or consequences.

\- There's the bragging by the SEC of record level payouts to whistleblowers, but as history has demonstrated the fines are such a joke that they are considered part of the cost of doing business. Hell, they claim to have just paid out something like 450 million to whistleblowers, but won't state what it's for. Given the manipulation of MSM, and bold faced lying can we even believe they actually ever did anything or are they just trying their hand at being a bullshit social media influencer?

\- There's the S3 reports of MOASS being a sure thing, yet it hasn't happened after months of being at that level.

\- There's the endless screenshots of Ortex and Bloomberg showing that the whole market is trashed, but nothing has happened.

\- There's the SEC's own report showing crazy high SI% in January, which also states that the shorts have not covered, but NOBODY, not one single person in the SEC (that we know of) stood up and said "Hold up. How does that make sense? Maybe we should look into that a little more."

\- There has been speculation that our shares are really just IOU's.

\- There's the whole PFOF scheme invented by none other than one of the greatest financial con-men to have ever walked the face of the planet. We have now had that scheme picked up by a huge MM and they've run with it, all while their leader has claimed he's just a humble dude looking to help retail (if you think he was actually out to help retail then I have a number of bridges I could sell you).

\- There's the vote that hit a miracle number of 100%, but we also know those numbers are massaged on purpose because heaven forbid that they get more than 100% and someone has to investigate.

And this is just what I can think of sitting here. I'm sure there are many more. Bottom line is that ALL of these agencies, banks, brokers, money makers, and government officials are holding hands while we play the game of Red Rover trying to break their line, but they've handcuffed their wrists together.

THE MOASS WILL NOT EVER HAPPEN IF WE RELY UPON THE HONESTY OF THE SYSTEM!! The system has evolved to not work with retail. The system never anticipated the Apes, but even with our arrival they will not just roll over and let things fall as they may. The system is broken for everyone unless you're in the inner circle of global finance.

What about the NFT dividend?

There is ONE possible catalyst we've all been hoping for. An NFT dividend. BUT WE HAVE ZERO PROOF OF IT!!! Yes, we know GME has been working on an NFT. You will get no argument from me on that. Yet, we do NOT know what the NFT is for!! We've speculated that it COULD be a dividend, BUT it could also be for in game play, it could be for actual games via a Steam like setup, hell, it could even be for Gamestop to become an NFT broker. We. Just. Do. Not. Know. And we won't know for sure until GME announces it.

Yeah, I've seen the countdown twitter theory. I REALLY like the theory. Yeah, I've seen all the permutations of trying to figure out the mythical 741 number. Some make sense. Some make me tilt my head and say "what the fuck?"

WE CANNOT RELY UPON THE NFT TRIGGERING MOASS!! Because we don't know what the NFT is actually for!

What is the one for sure catalyst?

We have looked at 14,000,605 timelines, and in just ONE do we win. The ONLY surefire way this works and we trigger MOASS is to take control of our shares. Take them out of the system that only favors the elite. Take away the IOU's. Take away the campaign contributions. Take away the speaking fees. Take away the self regulation. Take away the dark pool price suppression. Take away the manipulated earnings reports. Take away the perfunctory investigations.

We MUST direct register the float. THIS is the only way we, as mere mortal Apes, can do this. Transfer your accounts. Transfer your "shares." DRS IS THE ONLY FOR SURE CATALYST THAT WE CAN CONTROL!!

As part of full disclosure I'll say it right now. I'm an X holder of GME. It's what I could swing. I thought to myself that I'll just let the bigger money Apes DRS and I'll ride on the outside of their rocket. I AM WRONG! After thinking about all the stuff I posted above I have realized that I cannot cannot CANNOT have that mindset. It's selfish. It's bullshit. It will not help launch any rocket. Apes help Apes, and I was not acting like an Ape with this mindset. So today I'm going to start the process of moving my account to Fidelity, and then from there to Computershare. Even though I'm ONLY holding X doing so will get us X much closer to MOASS, and I know there's many Apes that are just like me.

TL; DR

DRS is the ONLY for sure way we can trigger MOASS without relying upon anyone else. It's the one and only thing we can directly control that cannot be influenced by market manipulation. Period.

*I am not a financial advisor. This is not financial advise. I'm an Ape who likes the stock.
