

Title: It's been quiet on the splividend drama - but it's still clear that DTCC screwed up and hasn't issued a statement since. What's next and why is no one talking about it? MAKE SOME FUCKING NOISE!

I can't find any posts on this topic on the big subs. Do any of you have any idea how we can manage to encourage people to ask questions? It has been proven several times that DTCC cheated us and did not provide brokers with new shares as GME intended, or am I completely wrong now? Brokers were given crystal clear instructions to book the stock split as a regular forward split, which they did. But why did DTCC not follow the instruction? What are the consequences now? It is clearly too quiet for me.
