So I don't ever post anything but I do lurk, so first of hi.... I think the extreme lock downs over in China could possibly be a way to get ahead of the rioting when we moon. The banks and property developments over there have already had significant losses in values due to the connection to a fraudulent system. People over in China have already gathered in front of that one super property developing places to demand their money back and I don't believe they got it back but were placated to leave them alone. Now imagine what would happen if we blasted off with GME thanks to our savior of a chairman Ryan Cohen, and most of the world crumbles due to our fraudulent system. China is the only place I've heard of going to such extreme measures to lock people in their homes and not even let them get foods and stuff. I don't know for sure but that is my thought.... Ok maybe my brain is just a polished ball of tinfoil. I'll get wrinkled one day.

Just wanna moon, I wanna be on the moon and then moon the earth back. Ok..... Bye.
