

Title: They are scared. One of the hedgie meltdown r's literally melted down at my comments, banned me, sent me a personal rude message, muted me, then responded to my comments on the post in which I'm unable to respond to. Lolol.

Share recall is what will smack the shorts into the ground. So many counterfeit shares floating around. It's gonna be glorious ;)

And what will you do when it isn't? When this fizzles out like every single prediction apes have ever made, will you finally wake up to your senses and dump your worthless bags? Or will you bury your head deeper in the sand and start pumping the next date the grifter mods tell you to pump?

Do you honestly, deep down in your heart of hearts, actually believe that people are paid to post negative comments about GME?

Do you know how to read? Lmao. The very paradox of most of your arguments is that, if GME were going to fail, you and your sidekicks wouldn't have to spend all day here attempting to (and utterly failing to) spread FUD. The more you attempt control, the less you have. You will learn this one day.

And if it falls to 0, wonderful. I'll buy it all the way down and smile the whole time (I am not alone in this sentiment, as I'm sure you can tell from the millions on WSB, the 800K on Superstonk, and 400K on  r/GME.)

I'm loving the ride, and can't wait for the moon. 🤪. Can wait my whole life, and if not I'll pass on the share to my two daughters.

Turn to the light, I feel the good in you; the conflict.

These meltdown subs are so minuscule compared to others that are full of bulls. Additionally, I've used a series of calculations to discover that these are all primarily shills/manipulators interacting with each other. They look foolish af.

What's so funny about all these meltdown subs is that the shills are the ones that always lose their temper. You guys really are trying your hardest, aren't you? Lolol.
