

Title: This may have been covered before, but Revolut has a $9,999.41 limit on how much money you can sell shares for.

Author: raidoe85

Created 2022-01-04 18:36:34 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/rw1bpa/this_may_have_been_covered_before_but_revolut_has/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/rw1bpa/this_may_have_been_covered_before_but_revolut_has/

I tried selling some shares of GME, as a sort of test run, on Revolut, as a limit sell. I'm not overly familiar with all of this carry on, so I wanted to be prepared for the MOASS. They seem to be capping the profit limit at below $10,000. I've been trying to get an answer from their customer service on the chat feature since last night. I've had three different people telling me they'd look into it, but no one has provided an answer. I had originally tried to set a limit sell price, to see what I could set it at, but 1 share or 100, it's still capped below $10,000. There's legitimately a limit on how much money you can make through Revolut when selling shares, which seems mental to me.

I'm in the UK, I have X shares with Revolut and X with Etoro. I don't really have the financial capacity to do anything about the situation right now, as I'm unemployed due to a brain injury I suffered last year. The whole situation seems a bit odd, though, doesn't it?

Edit - I was assured that I won't lose my money, though, which is kind of nice, I suppose.