*Edit: some people are stating that a couple of brokers have allowed purchasing of those stocks. I checked Fidelity and they require signing some documents to be allowed to trade it. So my title is a little misleading. However! it is still completely absurd that redditors would gang up on a penny stock tied to a liquidated company that holds no value.

*end edit

Someone still had a huge short position in the bankrupt company and was in early stages of forced liquidation.

Some others have pointed out today that Blockbuster and Sears started to squeeze again.

Hold strong my fellow apes. And take back what they've stolen from all of us.
