So Apes and Apettes, in our continued investigations into the rotten world of Billionaire Bastards... it would seem that once you reach that level of wealth and power, you tend to think that you can do whatever the fuck you want.

I present to you...

Lauren Bonner Vs POINT72 ASSET MANAGEMENT, L.P., STEVEN A. COHEN, in his individual and professional capacity, and DOUGLAS D. HAYNES, in his individual and professional capacity

THE PUSSY BOARD AT POINT 72

Part 1 of this case against Point 72, starts off with Douglas Haynes writing the word PUSSY on his whiteboard in his office and leaving it there for weeks. Holding meetings in his office with members of all sexes, this, no doubt had the ability to make people uncomfortable. Not exactly a professional workplace environment

Douglas Haynes \(\Right\)

DO YOU WANT TO FUCK HER

Complaint 2, a Point 72 consultant by the name of Dave Black joined a conversation alongside a woman unknown to Ms. Bonner and Justin Lubell, a high-ranking portfolio manager.

After the woman left, Justin asked innocently about the identity of the woman and Dave Black responded with:

"Why? Do you want to fuck her? You can, she works for me."

NO GIRLS ALLOWED

So here are some quick facts about the hiring and promoting of women at Point 72

Point 72 has 125 Portfolio Managers. Of these, 124 are Male.

Point 72 has 32 Managing Directors. Of these, 31 are Male.

The Investment Professional Hiring Committee is comprised exclusively of men

Male Executives have openly stated that they "refuse to hire women" disingenuously claiming that their "wives wont let them"

Less Qualified Male Candidates are hired at a 2:1 ratio over the ore qualified female candidates

In 2017 only 21% of new hires were women, none were hired as Portfolio Managers or Managing Directors and only one was brought in as a Director. (14 men were hired as Directors)

Women are routinely denied promotions

And there are multiple cases of women being forced out of the company for being "too emotional", "too sensitive" or simply "women".

After Ms. Bonner filed a complaint against one of her colleagues, that colleague was then allowed to sit on the promotion board deciding whether or not she got a promotion, and thus blocked her progress stating that she was "too aggressive"

COO of Point 72 actually holds meetings which he declares "no girls allowed"

Women that are hired by Point 72, earn SUBSTANTIALLY less than their counterparts (Often less than 50 cents per dollar earned by men)

Awww... what do you have there? Is that a ducky? Yes... who's got a ducky? YOU have a ducky!! Good boy!

There are MANY other examples of the type of environment that Stevey fosters at Point 72 in this Law suit, including but not limited to:

Men Openly stating that they will not hire women because their wives wont let them, they are too emotional and not team players or would not be good culture fits.

Female Employee candidates are actually asked questions such as do you have kids, do you plan to have kids, are you married, why are you not married.

Women are frequently subjected to comments regarding their physical appearance, including whether or not they are attractive, whether they look good, whether they look old, whether they look older than when they started at point 72, or are they too skinny or blonde.

Reasons, why women don't succeed at Point 72 are openly discussed such as because women want to have children, or are too emotional, or can be hysterical, or care more about work life balance, or do not work as hard as men.

All of this is DESPITE Steve Cohen's apparent lessons learned from original Asset Management Firm SAC capital being charged with INSIDER TRADING and many of his employees being charged with jail sentences.

While Cohen ESCAPED charges, he was banned for 2 years from investing outside of his private family wealth. He achieved this through a deal with the US Attorney's Office (In movies, these deals happen when you rat someone out).

Part of the deal was that he dismantle SAC, at which point he started Point 72.

2 years later, he was allowed to manage funds again, and as part of his mission to turn over a new leaf and learn from the mistakes of the past, he setup Point 72 to be a Company of the highest ethics.

MISSION

- To be the industry's premier asset management firm through delivering superior risk-adjusted returns, adhering to the highest ethical standards and offering the greatest opportunities to the industry's brightest talent.

VALUES

- We are professionals who conduct ourselves ethically and with integrity at all times.
- We operate as one firm, dedicated to succeeding together, with mutual respect and commitment.
- We are not satisfied with the status quo and are committed to pursuing innovation and excellence.
- We work together to advance our professional and personal development.
- We are exemplary citizens of the world and contribute to the communities in which we live and work.

Yet... instead of being the exemplary example of how he wants the public to perceive him... we get the company we see today.

This lawsuit REALLY gives a shocking inside view of what it's like to work at point 72. You can check it out in more detail here.

AMERICANS... I thought giving Sports Team ownership is how you knight people in the US? (Billions quote)

How the fuck is this guy someone people look up to?

Further...

When SAC was investigated for Insider Trading... they Plaintiffs PROVED that Insider trading did occur, they PROVED that the inside information was sent from SAC analysts to Steven Cohen and they PROVED that the company traded on that information. (Large positions by the way, that would have been outside the norm and likely incur discussions at all levels of the company)

The ONLY reason Cohen didn't get charged, was he that he argued the fact that he never read the Email and no1 could prove otherwise.

*Any of you Apes actually believe that???

And why did his employees go to jail, but he just got a 2 year ban? A ban confirms wrong doing...
