Just told the TD rep that I would like to direct register my shares from TD bank to ComputerShare, told him how many shares, and I was put on hold. After 25 mins, I was told there is going to be a fee of $90.xx USD (for each transfer, regardless of the number of shares). He said they have been getting increased calls for these transfers recently. I was willing to pay the fees, and he confirmed my name and address and after a few minutes he said the transfer was complete!!!

p.s. for those with wealthsimple who don't want to pay over $350 to do this transfer, you can transfer to other Canadian banks and ask them to do the transfer for a lower fee.

Edit: i made the same post on SS and it didn't get the same traction. Interesting
