

Title: Why is a stock split happening and not a reverse stock split, if RC really wanted to put the HF's in their place and start a SS?

TLDR if you just have a rah rah HF's are fucked and I'm going to sell my shares for 5 figures or more each.

Let me preface this with I love GME and RC, massive fuckery is afoot, but that's true of the ENTIRE market. I'm not trying to bash the stock at all, if it moons I have massive distant call option positions so I hope MOA$$ happens. This is really just a stream of consciousness rant after taking in all the recent news and theories.

After 08 and everything that happened subsequently as far as government intervention and turning a blind eye to certain things and even actively participating in the fuckery, flat out lying etc., just to keep the economy afloat.

With everything happening in the world right now, I just don't believe they will allow any major financial event that would upset the boat anymore than it is. They aren't going to sink the country to pay the apes.

After huge losses quarter after quarter if it were ANY other company a split would scream cash grab. Similarly to how the company who must not be named, executives used their "MEME stock" status and gains. I think comparing it to Tesla and Nvidia is apples and oranges. They were profiting and being held back by lack of funds to continue growing that profit.

GME is in a transitional period for sure, so I understand the quarterly losses and speculative future potential. That being said, how is 300M shares better than 1B when the goal is a SS? How is 1B NFT's or whatever "compensatory dividend" they offer better than 300m?

I own GME and wish I would have reloaded with shares at 80 obviously but at this point, I only own distant calls due to the volatility of the share price. GME and Tesla have become the easiest day trade stocks of all time. Don't fool yourself thinking it's nothing but ape's HODLing.

I will openly admit I've done both HODL and eat the losses and DT'd it and guess which one has been more profitable? The HODLer's make this possible but there are 10's of thousands of DT's making money off you daily. I hope you are rewarded for your loyalty eating all these losses while other's are profiting because of you.
