Hello fellow apes! I need your help understanding my options to register my GME shares. I have been educating myself through the megathreads and computershare info, but I am still overwhelmed. I hope this type of question is allowed and I hope the clarification helps someone else too.

I am using Wealthsimple, which currently charges between $282.96 to $309.93 depending on your province to process a withdrawal request. They claim the processing time could be 4-7 weeks or longer. As an XX holder, that is a steep price, especially considering I could afford to buy an additional two shares with that money (or more if the price continues to drop).

On their help page, they claim "Wealthsimple/Canadian ShareOwner does not participate in any lending programs and does not lend out shares." Is this true? Do I need to register my shares if they can't be lent out? Or does this mean something entirely different?

Thank you everyone!
