I am hoping this is general knowledge and I just don't know. I imagine studying that event will be good prep for the next event.

I'd be happy to read simple or in-depth and technical responses as to what caused the huge GME run-up; and why that day was different from others. If you have links to explanations or technical details I'd love to see them.

If there are things we don't know, I'd love to see a list of unanswered questions that may explain what happened if they could be answered; and if you see a question that you can answer, please do.

If there is a reason or possible reason it stopped OTHER than the buy button being turned off, I'd love to know about that too.
