

Title: BNGO: Questions about cyclical Pump and Dump off Earnings Calls

Author: ComteDeBetamax

Created 2021-05-21 17:06:46 UTC

Permalink: /r/ratioatblessons/comments/nhxj3k/bngo_questions_about_cyclical_pump_and_dump_off/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/ratioatblessons/comments/nhxj3k/bngo_questions_about_cyclical_pump_and_dump_off/

Is_self: True

Rookie question. Appreciate any teachers out there.

Earnings call for BNGO was 5/13 PM, and in AM 5/14 the stock popped a bit as expected.

My question is about the daily humps up and down. My intuition tells me that this is somebody deliberately pushing it up to play the hype, then pulling profits on the way down. The REAL un-manipulated price is basically the baseline. (I've been able to use it to my advantage a bit..)

My real question is "How can one analyze if that is indeed what is happening?" Are there visible patterns in the options trading that I could watch and see them stack this up? I need a few more wrinkles in my brain fast, and I'm starting from zero :)

Anyone want to teach the class?