The ape community is growing bigger and bigger everyday especially with the help of Jon Stewart bringing more traction in from his show and podcast.

With the price being so low now. That will only bring in more apes to superstock.

They want their system to stay afloat without any problems.

But if everyone is starting to realize that their system is super corrupt people will not invest as much or try to change their flubby wub sexual system.

My guess is that they will let the price jump to an attractive price so they can shut us up.

The ape movement is a big protest that can't be disrupted with police or water canons.

This community is a bunch of cancerous retards and it only spreads.

So GameStop will launch big green and I will get my tendies.

Sorry is my grammar is bad go fuck yourself.
