Don't take me the wrong way, I love all of the hype and I'm 65 shares in at $147. I want this thing to moon as much as anyone else because I have losses to recoup from the last rout just like a true gambler does.

The last time this event went down, everyday it was, "Tuesday this will boom!" And then, "Next Tuesday this will moon!" And after weeks of the same old guesses over and over, on some random day, it just mooned - for no rhyme nor reason.

And now here we are, round 10 of the same GME fight. Can someone give some real evidence or reasoning on why, "tomorrow the hedges are screwed?" Something to help everyone sleep better.
