Honestly,

I just have to say this...

I am so grateful that no one on this sub ever asks questions like "who's holding with me."

Even the simple presupposition of of togetherness in that question can be interpreted as "collusion."

I am and always will be an individual investor. One that loves to own stock and I mean actually "own" stock. Stocks that are registered directly to me. Directly to my name. The name my mother and father gave me and chose to keep for myself. I love to play video games. I love to buy those games at GameStop. I like to buy GameStop branded clothing that I wear proudly because I believe the management of the company I own stock in are working really hard to make the company great. I will buy NFT's online through GameStop because they understand that people want to shop, play, own and collect in the new digital economy.

Anyways I just want to say again thank you for all of you.
