It really does feel like a dream. I had heard of reddit for years, but never had a reason to go on here. Then one day, that sexy bitch with the initials of "GME" came into my life. It's been a wild ride, and one that will change the world, way beyond my life. I have never been that into the stock market, but now it's mostly what I read about and hope that the changes we all desire for fairness and to end corruption, comes to fruition. You apes, apettes, fruit stuffers, drone flyers, building photographers, DD investigators, lurkers, whales, minnows, letter writers, sign posters, tattoo getters....and all of you, I love this ride and hope it gets crazier. Much love to all...happy anniversary, cheers!
