There's nothing quite like Robinhood fuckery (perceived or actual) to give us a read on how many GME holders are still with them.

Everyone seems to have excuses, but when stuff like today happens here they come with the whining and bitching as though we didn't experience problems with them before. As if we never talked about it seemingly daily.

Just stop. They aren't the only broker out there who does options. They aren't the only broker with pretty charts.

Get out.
