It really comes off as insecure when many posts in gme are bashing other stocks owned by retail (evidently I can't even say its name here). Mosts posts on twitter from the prominent voices in gme spend 90% of the time bashing other stocks instead of hedgefunds that literally took away the buy button? Why has this seemingly moved on from a sqz play to now attempting to justify fundamentals? I can't even say that word here either. What the hell is happening? This isn't the same welcoming community as it used to be.
