Hi all,

so today was just HFs showing what they can do with the price of GME (forget bs about a positive article - we know that that was just a play for the blind audience). They want to demonstrate their power and discourage us, so we don't use options. Gamma squeezes could lead to something nasty for HFs. I don't do options; you do whatever you want. BUT what if I was about to suggest something (and I am not) we should every one of us buy one more share on Monday - to demonstrate our power. They are huge d*cks, but even if each of them had 30 inches near their purses combined, our small co(ntributions)cks are much longer.

PS: if this sounded negative - it was not. I still am in more than 100 % gains that means in -3 times more than Shellvin Crapital. I can hold and wait :)

Love you guys and gals.
