Spent my weekend in the hospital on all kinds of drips (all good now, was just 2 days). I saw the dip, but couldn't buy as I don't link financials to my phone, which is all I had with me. One nurse got me a charger when my phone died, still couldn't login.

To those on the other side. You're dealing with people like me. In hospital. On a drip. Trying to buy the dip on a drip? Good luck in this battle.

Anyway, I don't get ill much. Never really been in hospital. 99% of the nurses and doctors were fuckin' awesome (bosses were dicks). The people helping me were genuine and great at their job. Respect. I think they knew my thanks as I left was genuine.

Financials are ready now. Monday open...
