Hey everyone :)

I have a little question and I hope y'all can help me.

I'm about to DRS my last remaining $GME shares and will do it with the broker IBKR. Since my shares are currently located on another broker, I need to send them to IBKR first. Here comes the problem. When I DRS'd my first shares I had to switch the account currency to USD as a part of the process. Now IBKR sent me a message, informing me that the incoming shares were sent in another currency (EUR vs. USD), but they haven't dropped a word stating that it would be a problem or something. They literally just informed me that "it is like that".

Now I am kind of confused wether I need to switch my account currency back to EUR to receive my shares, just to change it back a day later in order to DRS them. Have in mind, that changing the currency always requires paying a fee of 5$ or something.

So before I just waste that money on changing again and again, I thought I just ask you smart apes on here if you had any clue if it is really necessary.

Thanks in advance <3
