All you see on Reddit now is bbby shit, I think the only reason people aren't suspicious about it is because RC has positions in it but apart from that, it's been enough of a distraction to make me question what are we waiting for with GME? The bbby people are waiting for an announcement at the end of the month and they have the hype around January to look forward to. Personal I think GME is a wayyyy better company than bbby based on fundamentals, I've never even stepped into a bbby store personally.

What are we waiting for with gme apart from the nft stuff? The marketplace launched, the split dividend happened, what's left?.

Not trying to create fud, I still hold all my positions and frankly I don't even know how to sell from Computershare lol.
