I've been debating whether or not I should post this link to a video that just rocked my mind many years ago and wondered how any of it makes sense today. What happened last year when the buy button was taken away was an example of what happens when desperation kicks in from the elite. GME opened the flood gates of corruption and manipulation and showed how deep this money game runs. The link is to a YouTube video which explains Maritime Admiralty Law that runs about 10 minutes. The audio quality sucks but the information it provides is golden. Please feel free to share this message and hopefully it reaches a lot of people who are just as fed up like us. I also encourage (just like with anything else) to do your own research and you come to your own conclusion. Thank you.
