

Title: I'm keeping 1 GME share in multiple accounts/brokerages in case they pull shady stuff. To be protected under the 500k SIPC insurance policy.

I am highly paranoid the government will pull some shady stuff once MOASS kicks off and the share price is something crazy, I'm assuming 7 figures and that's when things get crazy and unknown. They may pull some sort of trick and say since it's so high we will only pay out the 500k per account that has GME and X amount for each share. I'm guessing here but do you trust them? You can also have multiple accounts at one institution and they will pay each account the 500k. So far I'm up to 6 accounts and continuing to open up more accounts with different brokerages that are US based. What do you guys think about this strategy, am I crazy or this is a possibility?
