Title. I want to limit sell(30 day) one of my XX shares of GME at the maximum allowable amount for the luls.. I go through the process including typing YES then mobil confirmation number. It takes me back to the home page.. and nothing, no confirmation email, no change under my pending transactions

I called computershare help over the phone and was asked a few very basic questions and asked to just place the order over the phone when I declined asking to know what the issue was I was placed on hold for nearly an hour before getting the picture and hanging up.

Not trying to spread FUD but this is frankly freaking me out, im very nervous what will happen in a volatile situation if this is the customer service im to expect in a normal situation.. has anyone else experience these issues or know of a potential solution?
