Sorry if this topic has been covered before but with the amount of posts it's really hard to find a discussion on this point.

I've read some discussions on how some major brokers stopped trading last time the GME price went up. Unfortunately, I live in Romania so the selection of brokers is pretty limited but I was wondering if there are any brokers out there that haven't stepped in in the past and are likely not going to fuck us over in the future.

I know the best advice is to DRS but let's take this out of the question for a moment. Which would be a safer choice?

Thanks!
