Hello my brilliant apes, I hope you can help ease this ape's troubled mind.

I'm 100% DRS Europoor and cheques are no longer accepted here. So when it's time to sell that one GME share while leaving the rest for the infinity pool, the money has to be wired to my bank account.

The problem is that on CS, I can only see the last four numbers of the bank account that they have on file. I'm worried sick that I've made a typo in the invisible numbers and there appears to be no way of checking what the complete number is.

The first time I tried contacting CS about this was through chat, they told me they don't have access to my full bank account number and gave me a phone number I should call. But when I called, they told me again that they don't have access to that information. My last attempt was through email and yet again, I was told that they don't have access and that I should call the same number as was given me in the chat. This is going nowhere.

I tried telling myself "it's probably alright" but my mind won't let me believe that.

Please, does any of you know what I can do ?
