

Title: Wall Street Journal columnist, Spencer Jakab, a to release a new book titled, The Revolution That Wasn't. Heard him on the Afford Anything podcast. Complete bullshit.

Author: BiPolarBear722

Created 2022-01-31 05:26:32 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/sgtd56/wall_street_journal_columnist_spencer_jakaba_to/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/sgtd56/wall_street_journal_columnist_spencer_jakaba_to/

Apparently, these assholes are coming at us from every direction. Paula Pant hosts the Afford Anything podcast and has good general financial advice and she recommends index funds for investing. She was not happy about them shutting off the buy button last year and she wanted to bring someone on to talk about it on the one year anniversary.

Unfortunately, she picks this moron to talk to because he's a self proclaimed "expert" on what happened with GameStop. He knew jack shit on the subject and acted like this shit is over. I was screaming at my phone while listening to him speak. Either he's ignorant or he's a paid shill. They came to the conclusion that index funds are the only way for retail to invest which happily confirmed Paula's bias. The reason that has been true in the past is because of the major fraud and manipulation GME has and is continuing to uncover. It's hard to invest in companies that you believe in when the price fluctuates like crazy due to concentrated and planned manipulation by these hedge funds.

I'm not mad at Paula but more so, Spencer. He clearly did not do his homework on the subject or he's being paid to control the narrative. ■