Hey team - I just stumbled across a post on another sub where someone pulled out morse code from the New York NFT image. Speculation over there was that the rocket was launching from where baby HQ is located close to NYC.

Turns out, there was a hidden morse code in the NFT. I used the Caesar Cipher app to brute force some options. The only one that makes sense was the first option in the list of about 20:

Check out the body of the post below because I can't crosspost here. All credit goes to u/JimbozGrapes for seeing the morse code and digging deeper.

Let's go team... what other hidden messages are there in the NFT?*

Original Post copy:

This NYC (sic) NFT has a rocket blast off at about 6 seconds into the gif, and if you google maps statue of liberty to baby headquarters, the rocket takes off right above the baby headquarters. Rockets taking off is a stock reference for the stock being squeezed, or going to the moon (as in shooting up way in price).

The rocket has odd smoke coming from the back - the first line on the left on some of the frames is morse code for GME - the stock ticker for gamestop.

Also, the windows in the background have G A M E S T O P spelled out on the buildings in the back. As the rocket is taking off, the windows flicker and make different patterns. I think there is something here - they don't flicker at any other point in the gif and are not typically how shine is done for pixel art.

I am horrible at puzzles, but I believe some frames (there are 2 frames where all of the lights of GAMESTOP are lit up in the back) have hidden morse code messages in the rockets trail, and I also believe the way the lights flicker on the windows of the buildings is also some sort of code. The messages could be reference to stock tickers but I'm not entirely sure. That is to say, random jumbles of letters that aren't dictionary words might have meaning in this puzzle.

If anyone wants to take a crack at this, would be really cool to see if there are some more secret messages here!
