

Title: Looking for advice

Author: Lilsnoww

Created 2022-04-29 16:14:39 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/uepftt/looking_for_advice/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/uepftt/looking\_for\_advice/

Now this isn't exactly GME related outside of the fact that GME is the first stock I have ever owned and I don't really know anyone else to ask. I only own 9 measly shares of GME as a broke college student but I'm holding onto them until the hedgefunds eat shit. That being said I'm not making any money off of this stock at this moment since I am just holding for the long run. I came into this completely blind and have learned a lot about the market through this community and this subreddit in particular. And I know that there are a lot of investors here who know what they're doing in general so I was looking for any recommendations on how to get into other stocks? Daytrading? Crypto? Anything that could possibly give me any sort of profit. Preferably something that I don't have to spend a bunch of money on to get into initially but can earn some back in some time? Usually I see with daytrading people buy hundreds of shares at a time buying low and then selling high to get profit but if I can only afford one or two at a time so the profits don't really add up to much. I can spare about $100-200 a month for investments but I don't really know where to start? Any advice on what I can do with $100-200 a month to see some potential profit or growth? Even just an extra $100 a month profit would be huge for me so any advice on stocks trading or savings or links to information on how to do so would be greatly appreciated thank you apes ■