Anyone else running shitboxes for MOASS? Originally with Cough19 trending in late '19/early '20 I decided to keep my cash as liquid as possible so gave up driving anything "nice". The roads where I live are shit most of the year anyway and all the cool fan boy cars are boring in that they are garage queens for half the year.

These may very well be the best "investment vehicles" I'll ever have in allowing me to hold as much GME stock itself as I can; in allowing me the capital to invest in to what I want, when I want.

I had 6 beaters in 2020, stocked up on them back then, and glad I did because 2021 saw 40+% inflation with used shitboxes. Some people in my life needed vehicles so instead of them having to go out and buy overpriced shitboxes, I sold them mine for cheap. Sold a couple other vehicles including a Mustang GT and made decent money on them. Now I'm down to a $1000 Toyota minivan I've used work/road trips/home projects, and a $1000 rusty Jeep furByfur I've been able to keep going, goal is to put 500k on it, I'm at 325k (km). I can do lot of the work on them myself.

I'm not fuckin' leavin'.
