Maybe im just destined to make the worst financial decisions possible at every turn. But i have hope for the future. Today we're going to be evicted because my gf and i can't pay rent. I could sell my gme stock but it would be a death sentence the day the stock moons and im left in the dirt still penniless. So we're going to send the kids to my parents and figure out how to live on the streets for the time being. Nothing has ever stressed me out this much before but hopefully soon i wont have financial troubles any more. Stay strong apes.
