

Title: Unfortunately, pension funds are preventing the squeeze. DRS until you die.

Author: RafaelAzevedoPiano

Created 2022-06-14 22:47:10 UTC

Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/vcfolr/unfortunately_pension_funds_are_preventing_the/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/vcfolr/unfortunately_pension_funds_are_preventing_the/

Good night, everybody. Hope you are HODLING well.

It's very simple.

Swaps are used, hiding the real SI value due to Swaps being under special privileges.

The Bank of America, and/or as some wrinkled apes concluded, associate members of the Chicago Board Options Exchange (a quasi FED-like institution for option traders), take the short position of its "Systemically Important Client", as defined by CBOE's "Terms and Conditions". These financial titans back the whole shorting mess that still remains under the rug, this way preventing a total market collapse by the actions of a certain market maker responsible for 97% of retail's stock order flow.

So this is the sad state of GME shorting 101, late 2021/2022 edition.

Due to these Swap's convoluted legal dynamics, and also due to the CFTC's decision to hide Swap contracts until at least another year, Swaps rule the world, keeping GME on an ever tightening leash.

These banks are giving air to Citadel, preventing a margin call, since these banks and institutions have a much higher margin call GME value than if Citadel kept the risk in-house.

What does this GME "Citadel/Bank of America Swap Shorting extravaganza" mean, in actual, physical reality?

How are banks in concrete reality so rich and so powerful?

Houses.

Mortgages.

We are fighting the money that the people across the street sacrifice so much to make, and "invest" on their mortgage for a ridiculously overpriced small apartment, sometimes sacrificing so much quality of life to be able to afford these mortgages.

Simultaneously, in Citadel, Kenny furiously presses the shorting button. The shorting button is directly connected to the Swap department of the Chicago Board of Fuckery, which in turn has a Pornhub powered video streaming service to Bank of America, the most efficient, SEC approved method of communication, asking for 200k shares to be posted on iborrowdesk, everyday at 07:16, Kenny's jerking off hour.

After asking for the shares to the Bank of America representative, the CBOE lady then uses a bedpost to please herself, since its Mr. Kenny's special request.

He shorts hard, like a bad boy.

He requested a dildo bed post mainly for the lols, since I believe at this point he loves all GME memes, consults Superstonk daily, and is becoming progressively more retarded. No one can keep this game without some good GME memes.

Just fucking DRS until you die, otherwise this funny mortgage shit ain't so funny at all.

Hope you enjoyed my summary/reflection/moral Due Dilligence about the present state of GME stock, how connected to everything and how important the GME is to the lives and limitations of everyone and everything around the world. Think if all this money they burn while shorting GME was used to help people afford a home.

Just fucking buy and DRS GME, the squeeze is nigh, and a new, fairer economy is on the horizon.