1. Correct me if I am wrong, the game plan is to keep pumping GME higher so the hedgies are forced to buy at a high price therefore causing the dam the break and flooding the town (to the MOON!) at expiration?
2. also doesn't these short positions have an expiration date maximum or are they rolling them over constantly? For example, if they started these around July 2021 (when it reached the lowest point) it'll expire 3 years out? Since that is the maximum available on the option chain at that time.
3. A lot of stock analysis and news are trying to lower GME share price right now, which only means, their time to buy back is soon!

As GME is dipping atm, the fear is setting these monkeys, but remember, we are APES!

Edit: Lower share price, i mean't that the analyst are saying short/mid/long term it's a SELL and not a BUY
