

Title: Fully Zen investor who is looking for any flaws or reasons on why MOASS will not happen.
Author: BigFatMambaa
Created 2021-10-12 16:27:49 UTC
Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/q6pzn3/fully_zen_investor_who_is_looking_for_any_flaws/
Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/q6pzn3/fully_zen_investor_who_is_looking_for_any_flaws/

THIS IS FUD, PLEASE LOOK AWAY IF IT ISNT FOR YOU

Preface:

Alright lets kick this off, Im a long time holder first time poster here but always come here for more serious or controversial topics for obvious reasons. You will not be able to influence my decision making, I own part of this company, and I love the company I own. I understand you are not a financial advisor, I will not take anything you say as financial advice, this is a discussion (as flaired) on why the MOASS will not happen, for the sake of a conversation & legitimate apes who may have different information/views & opinions PLEASE do not start the "SHILL" spam. Lets keep this civilised & agree to disagree if someone has a different view. If you cant accept this discussion, please just continue scrolling without commenting your "Hedgies r fuk, buy hold DRS" since I already know this info and this post is to challenge my current views. (Im weird like that, hope some other Zen apes know what I mean when I say I truly am fkin Zen)

Cool? ok cool. as we learn DRS is the way relatively recently, what methods can be used now to perpetually delay this or never actually close their short positions?

As the registered shares keep going up, why would we need to lock up the ENTIRE float? Wouldnt X amount of the float be sufficient due to the existing options chain which also tell you there are (*should have) Y many shares within the derivatives market?

I wont reference any TA's, Elliot waves, OBV etc since predictions made based on these indicators previously have been ~~proven to be~~ mostly "broken clock right twice a day" at best. Im more of a "the price is wrong" guy anyways so it doesnt really matter what the current price is to me, but what do you think is being done to fluctuate the price in a way where its not being linked to the actual parties involved in the price manipulation? & theoretically how long do you think it can be perpetuated? With the zombie stocks coming back alive, market crash fears probably causing RRP numbers to climb steadily, what makes us believe that GME wont tank along with other tickers? Beta? Institutional holders may very well sell due to need for liquidity, right? and if we're discussing the fact that "yes gme will tank but it will rise again" then whats to stop short positions all the way down, then closing the shorts through more of the secret ingredient?

Kennyboi (allegedly) pulled the trigger at $200+ at open to (allegedly) force brokers to stop trading for certain tickers, but that doesnt mean it is anywhere close to them being margin called, perhaps it could be $800? Perhaps 2k? How would this be reasonably guesstimated, is it something that can be extracted by knowing their AUM then comparing typical amount of leverage institutions that large is able to trade with?

Theres so many things im not mentioning in this post, please feel free to point on glaring holes in the MOASS theory, or the general sentiment that this is a 100% certainty.

Once again, keep it civilised, dnt start shit in the comments with the goal of being aggressive/offensive. As mentioned for the n(th) time now, this is fud, I kindly ask for you to please not comment non-discussion inducing information. I get it, MOASS is inevitable, DRS is the way, they cant close if we lock up the float, infinity pool, any heck.. as an investor im in it for the money, and I truly believe my investment is with a great company. With all the "please dont be a cunt" requests out of the way, please..

FUD ME HARDER,DADDY.

PS - Yes, im an idiot, i know this probably isnt going to work, and im going to be permanently dubbed a shill henceforth. A risk im willing to take in the never-ending quest for knowledge! Hope to learn from this discussion & help infect more apes with this Zen mode where I actively look for FUD to chew during my lunch break.

TLDR ;

Thank you for entertaining this request my fellow co-owners of this company! It was way more civilised than I thought it would ever be. I'm very grateful for how positive the feedbacks were.

Seems like some of the main reasons mentioned that got some traction-

- 1) Government involvement
- 2) Trading laws that allow them to halt if anything spikes and poses a risk.
- 3) No NFT dividends
- 4) A totally corrupt system which allows for perpetual can kicking.
- 5) Blanket cap on the upper limit of the price per share, mandated by the fed/government.
- 6) Rc/GS is involved in scandal or smear campaign

Would be great to have this discussion continue, and maybe one day be a viable topic to be discussed on other subs, get more eyes on it, more brains thinking and discussing. I know this aint war, and I'm not Sun Szu, but only by identifying their possible next moves can we plan ours■■■■■ I do not believe in policing ideas and topics that can and can not be discussed in a public sub, as ideas that cannot be criticised are not bulletproof to begin with. For the day another brave dumb ass decides to do this, I wish you luck. Heres proof that our fellow investors are indeed civilised, can hold a great conversation on the possibilities of fuckery and theories that stem from that. Love you guys ❤️🙌