It means HODL. But. BUT. GME is going to go up. It's going to skyrocket. It's going to increase so unfathomably high that there are going to be pauses to try and fix it.

But they can't do it forever. Your portfolio will be shooting over the moon soon. You'll see numbers that you wanted to see, then numbers you didn't think possible.

As far as everyone that watched you buy GME knows, you paper handed. You're not going to let anyone know but a very renown lawyer, and you're going to make sure that money is safe.

The average American needs 1 million to retire.

You're going to have just about if not way more than that.

You're going to be free.

I'm going to disappear. This Reddit account will be expunged. Nobody can reach me here, not that anyone would want to, but I'm going to fall even further off the grid if it reached unprecedented amounts. But you all deserve to win, and to win GOOD. Don't flaunt your wealth, but remember those who supported you along the way. All those apes that wanted to win but could only buy less shares, and the people that you love that you bought GME for in the first place

You have to think of your gameplan when you win rather than when you lose.

I know all of you will win more than me, though. Because you bought GME for a reason, and I'm proud.
