Are you new here? If so, let me give you a little hopium, there is 47% of the float left and they have 19.67% sold short (that they are reporting). We are now officially in a real estate market crisis starting yesterday so their long positions are less leveraged. In the event of a margin call during a short sneeze, they will be forced to buy all shares at any price and be forced to close short positions. This means only 27.33% until they are truly fucked with no way out, we are the flood and the water is rising exponentially. They are drastically trying to use any and all tricks in the book to get us to sell by lowering the water so they don't drown. Just remember, short sellers can and will face infinite losses in the event of a short sneeze. Currently, they define the price, however, once the float locked exceeds the amount of risk they face and they are drowning, we will define the price.

Many things will happen up until then, other stocks will pump and tempt us. We will miss out on gains, but that's also what a gambling addict will tell you in a reno hotel's casino.

Key Takeaways:

- * We are one of the few independent investors willing to direct register our shares and withdraw certificates from the DTCC, we are not losing traction, we are gaining traction.
- * We are the only stock that has a former DTCC and several multibillionaires rooting for us along with a down-to-earth philanthropist that is super bullish on GameStop and is a multi-millionaire.
- * We are the only stock that has investors willing to take action by filing reports not only in our country but globally. (You Austrian and German apes who reported it are the real MVPs here I reported things several times with solid evidence but the SEC is useless).
- * All countries are upset about how the splivend was registered as a split, for all we know the DTCC could randomly get fukt with justice by other countries. Stuff like that doesn't just go away in other countries. Only in America (COVID insider trading politicians' scandal).
- * It is physically and fundamentally impossible for GameStop to go to $0, it is 100% possible that hedge funds can go to $0 facing infinite losses in the event of a default holding short positions.
- * We are the only stock that has had a Congressional Hearing (even though it seemed like a sad skit).

January 4th 2021 the GME SI% was reported at 313.82%

* The SEC even stated in the January report on Gamestop that short sellers did not close positions.

TL;DR: Until the float is direct registered and locked to the point that they are facing serious risk (27.33% left) they will do anything and everything to keep that from happening, they define the price until the shorts get fuk and sneezed on. Look at it as us holding a hose while they are in a box filling with water. They can distract us and slow the flow up until they drown. Once they do, they'll do anything and everything to survive.

I posted this in a comment but I feel that it's much deeper than just one person to hear. If it impacts one, it impacts many.
