

Title: Let It Out Apes(Repost)

Author: RatioAtBlessons

Created 2021-05-10 00:19:49 UTC

Permalink: /r/ratioatblessons/comments/n8rcrb/let_it_out_apesrepost/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/ratioatblessons/comments/n8rcrb/let_it_out_apesrepost/

Is_self: True

Body:

Let it out Apes

Let it all out this weekend apes.

Your memes, your thoughts, your questions, your dreams, your vibes, your mood.

Breathe on the sub all weekend until you've gotten it all out. Also get out outdoors for a bit when the sun is shining..even if just for a second. Breathe. You've made it this far.

No matter your situation or your lot. Take a moment to gather, hydrate, replenish. Get your mind and your emotions ready for the next 5. One fiver at a time.

Diamond hands do not function without the strength to clench. It's okay to get tired and worn. It's a must. The weekend is the time to restore.

Let it all out. Pound your chest. Shit behind a tree. Swing from one to another. Eat your crayons and your bananas.

I'm proud of each and every ape that's made it this far. Those retail apes before us in other times and other stonks who paved the way but didn't have our advancements.

Too big for the little guy? We gon' see.

I'm not smart enough to do this? We gon' see.

I don't have enough money to play in this game? I had at least enough for one share to buy my way in. Now that I'm here somebody gotta take it or I've gotta give away. They can do whatever they want to try to take what I got..I've held. I'll hold. Until I go bust or they do.

Fun Fact: The actual value of the shares cannot be calculated until the actual amount of real shares that exist are known minus that of the total amount of the synthetic. The two must be separated. All real shares available to market must be accounted for. Short or long. The longer that takes the more that the current speculative value increases. The longer it goes that shares aren't required to be accounted for, the longer it will take to account for every share, the more shares being purchased and held, the more synthetic shares are •created•.

Strip the names away from the shares in any of the models presented thus far. Numbers only.

How many total shares are there?

How many total shares long?

How many total shares short?

How many total booked Call Buy/Sell Options(by dates)?

How many total booked Put Buy/Sell?

Total global dollar amount involved in this one stock trade?

How much is the GME trade overall?

If no one knows to date..no one knows.

If know one knows then who could anyone know what 1s(long or short) is really worth?

It's funny though..ya know..it's funny that we use computers to get facts and information. We all do. We all do. We all do.

Hedge funds, banks, you, me, brokers, yadda-yadda-yadda.

I go to buy a car. I apply at the dealership to finance the car on a shitty Dell using whatever bundled software the dealership uses to process applications. That application goes to the finance companies. Depending on my credit score that goes to another and another. Each with software that instantly calculates and recalculates my if I'm approved for whatever rate at whatever terms or if I'm denied. Based on criteria that was developed. That criteria developed by some company that assigns value. That value based on percentage.

All the person at the dealership knows is that after you apply the computer shows that your able to purchase whatever fits within a range of $$$'s based on the information provided. He doesn't know who determined what, how or why. He doesn't know who wrote the software that does the calculations. Why should he? It's not his job. Doesn't change the fact that at some point the human stops calculating and the software that the human programed computer to return the inquiry takes over.

What does this all mean?

Just like the magic ■ says.

What does that mean to you?

The difference between nothing or everything.

Kinda like starting level 3-1 on Super Mario Bros with 1L and hitting the flag with symbols.

The way is the way..even in the dark.