Hey everybody,

Long-time lurker in different subs and sometimes shit poster in this one, but for now I kinda need your input. I want to transfer my GME shares from De Giro tot Interactive Broker. I have 2 options of doing this.

1. Transfer - initiate a transfer that take 4 - 6 weeks and been able to trade in the meanwhile. With the announcement coming up soon, the end game could be here anytime (again).
2. Sell positions, cash out, deposit and re-buy the positions. This will take approx. 3 days till I have the cash in my account, plus 24 hours to deposit it to IBKR. Again with the possible announcement I could sell at a lower price and be forced to buy back at a higher price.

For now I am leaning towards taking matters in my own hands and pick option 2. I'm curious to what you guys have to say. Nothing will be financial advice but I need some feedback on my thoughts.

Buy. Hold. DRS.
