

Title: Even if we sold for $69,420,714, the price on Computershare is CAPPED to $214,748.36. I don't see anyone discussing this. Could this possibly prevent MOASS?

1) As mentioned above, the AMA with the dude from Computershare, Paul and superstonk Mod, did not have any mentions on increasing the maximum price cap per share. The FAQ on Computershare remains the same.

How is it possible for all those X holders to receive phone numbers if we are handicapped? I would also stand to argue those people who understand the cap wouldn't hold above it no? Because there would be no point financially if they simply could receive a max gain of 214K? Won't this Hinder the MOASS to phone number levels?

Does this not mean that the push for DRS should be a reasonable split, like a 80/20 or something like that? Where the 80 would not be sold and held to infinity and beyond.

2) Also, a small question I would want opinions on, is it better to receive the sale proceeds via international wire or by check?

Note: I am as smooth as they come. Have recently DRS everything and was curious about an exit strategy at phone numbers level. So I started enquiring. And the more I enquired the more I got confused. Could any senior ape assist? NFA.
