This is a hype post, and a warning to buckle up.

LETS GOOOOOOOO!!!!

I'm the guy that found out Simplex was owned by Virtu and posted it a week or so ago. Now I bring you more information. I was digging around in L00pring's github, and stumbled across some code that shows their new Web App is going live this week.

L00pring announced they are having a competition with up to $600k in prizes starting December 23rd.

Their github coding for said competition and how they track the trades is in their new web app coding.

That means that in order to have this competition and track the trading, they will have to launch the web app prior to the competition.

Once they launch their new web app, Gamestop can launch its NFT Marketplace, and it could be simultaneously. Most announcements come on Tuesday, and I would suspect that L00pring would want to have it live a day or two before the competition, so buckle up everybody.

We're going to the moon!!!!
