If we look at every time Gme has run up, it has done so 5 times

END of January 2021

6 weeks later

Beginning of march

3 months later

Beginning of June

10 weeks later.

End of august

3 months later

End of November.

See the pattern? 2 in the beginning of months, then 2 at the end of months. We should see the next squeeze at the beginning of the month it happens in next. If that does happen, the pattern is confirmed.

If the pattern stands as it is, Gme should squeeze roughly 6-10 weeks after the last squeeze considering it's a "switch", which seems to take less time than 3 standard months. Could happen in the beginning of January since that's 6-8 weeks from late November.

If I'm right, someone donate my losses back to me.

Basically, buy the dip now if you can.

Not financial advice.

The latest it should happen is the week of the anniversary. January will be a good month for the stock
