Title: Anyone ready to meet our new accounting/CFO?

Author: GriffTrip

Created 2022-07-07 21:52:59 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/vtu3i2/anyone_ready_to_meet_our_new_accountingcfo/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/gallery/vtu3i2

About

I am passionate about building legacies, developing new generations of leaders and creating the digital building blocks for dynamic global organizations. My experience spans across the following industries: Construction, Consumer Products, Consumer Electronics, e-Commerce, Financial Services, Retail, Software, Technology, Telecom & Network Operations. I have experience in companies with revenue ranging from $300 million to $20 billion.

GameStop CFO Leaves as the Company B.

Next: Earnings Season Is Coming. Here's W.

GameStop stock was down 6.7% in after-hours trading. The stock had closed up 15% during Thursday's session after the company announced a stock split.

Justin Sullivan/Getty Images

GameStop's GME +15.06% ▲ finance chief is leaving the company amid plans for corporate job cuts, CEO Matt Furlong wrote in a memo to employees that was viewed by Barron's.

Furlong wrote in the memo, which was first reported on by Axios, that CFO Mike Recupero will be replaced by Chief Accounting Officer Diana Jajeh. Recupero joined the company in June 2021 amid a wave of new hires with technology backgrounds. Jenna Owens was hired as chief operating officer in March 2021, but departed after seven months.