Please stop saying it is all there on the statement. It is clearly not all there, otherwise I would not be making this inquiry

So to clarify, SoFi has no proof that shares were transfered from DTC into my account?

Yes or no?

I'm not sure what you're looking for. There isn't an additional record of the activity beyond what is listed on the account statement. We've outlined what that transfer process looks like, GME releases the shares to their transfer agent, and then the shares were delivered to your account via DTCC. That's where the shares came from.
