Body: Happy Thursday, how's the day treating you?
I'm sure most of you would agree that the more you read and the more interdisciplinary your research gets the more everything connectspatterns, interrelations, and blue-prints from observations that can be traced from one branch of academia to another; one fundamental deep dive that left a tinfoil taste on your tongue when those synapses saw a similarity to that three coffee deep midnight theory that caught you the other night.
This one caught me, and affirmed something I sometimes forget
Questions everything, and everyone.
Joe Rogan - Robert Schoch Explains Sphinx Water Erosion Hypothesis
Video length - 19:26
>The Sphinx water erosion hypothesis is a fringe claim, contending that the Great Sphinx of Giza and its enclose walls eroded primarily due to ancient floods or rainfalls, attributing their creation to Plato's lost civilization of Atlantis over 11,500 years ago.[\[1\]](https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sphinx_water_erosion_hypothesis#cite_note-:0-1)[\[2\]](https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sphinx_water_erosion_hypothesis#cite_note-:1-2)
>Egyptologists, geologists and others have rejected the water erosion hypothesis and the idea of an older Sphinx, pointing to archaeological, climatological and geological evidence to the contrary.[\[3\]](https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sphinx_water_erosion_hypothesis#cite_note-3)[\[4\]](https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sphinx_water_erosion_hypothesis#cite_note-:2-4)[\[5\]](https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sphinx_water_erosion_hypothesis#cite_note-:3-5)
>- wikipedia
*\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\\
Overview, and my take

Title: IQ +1

Is self: True

Author: RatioAtDecidendi

Created 2021-05-20 15:36:55 UTC

Permalink: /r/ratioatblessons/comments/nh3ehf/ig 1/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/ratioatblessons/comments/nh3ehf/ig 1/

Now, make of it what you will but to me its an interesting theory, and although I respect titles, qualifications, and prestige to some degree, this story to me highlights that convention should always be questioned. Especially when in Egypt the historical use of Cannabis, psychoactive and psychedelic independent researchers and the Ivy League/Red Brick don't just dismiss it, but actively block this research and its dissemination to the public.

Atlantis and Plato aside, a group of scientists, geologists, egyptologists et al. have been battling against mainstream academia for 70 years offering the theory, now backed by solid data, contending that the Egyptian Sphinx is way way older than the old guard of Oxford, UCLA, and Yale claim. Essentially, one of the most revered civilisations in history has been found to have deeper more complex roots by a group of substances goes back thousands of years...oh, and Egypt was the *primary* state to push for Cannabis derived substances to be controlled and regulated in the International Opium Convention back in 1912, with the *sole* backing of the United States of America *and* China? And, what was it those Ancient Egyptians used the most culturally and spiritually?

*Now, that's interesting...*

I hear there could be a big market for expanding your consciousness these days...