A call with Fidelity today

I called Fidelity today as I just received my cost basis from my transfer from RH. The transfer took 4 days but the cost basis took another 35 days to transfer. That's not the issue, on my purchase statement for AMC everything was perfect all shares purchases and prices aligned. On the GME was another story, there's are 15 pages of fractional shares purchased (I always buy in shares not $) at outrageous prices one was $432 all purchased after the transfer was completed to Fidelity. It's a real mess, it now shows a capital loss of thousands. Definitely something is going on at RH and looks like they scrambled to buy shares to cover the transfer. If this goes to the IRS like this it would be showing over a 30k loss when my actual is nowhere near. My ending statement form RH also showed 1.5M 😂 in trades my last month with them balancing out to my actual balance that is no where near 1.5M. I have all my shares but the books are jacked. The fuckery is real.

My question is why did my AMC come over clean but my GME come over a shit show. Can't post on #superstonk so I'm posting here.
