This Rule is bad for us! It's possibly going to hinder the real price discovery. This rule will allow the creation of synthetics of synthetics. These ETFs would not hold the real shares and create their own liquidity. Meaning the lending of synthetics, it basically amounts to theft. It dilutes gamestop stock and will lower the security's value, so please get your ass up and submit a comment!

(Don't be vulgar or anything, just express that you don't think this helps retail traders, and you don't want it to be passed. Don't be vulgar or anything like that.)

Here is an example to copy (not mine):

When broken down, this proposed rule change is CLEARLY designed to protect institutions/individuals from the natural consequences of unconscionable and/or ILLEGAL activity in the stock market, specifically the engagement in synthetic share/naked short transactions, which have been used to artificially suppress and manipulate stock prices. This activity protects large and powerful entities from losses due to their own poor investments, an advantage that common retail investors dont enjoy. The common retail investor can lose everything and the regulatory agencies do not seem to care, while the large and powerful hedge funds always seem to have the safety net of nefarious rule changes or bailouts. But as millions of us are now learning, retail losses are sometimes not even due to poor investment choices, but rather we are merely victims of corrupt and illegal stock market practices being committed by hedge funds, market makers, brokers, etc. And this time, we are watching. If retail investors are not properly represented and protected moving forward, our voices WILL be heard around the world, and this could have a negative impact on the markets as a whole moving forward.

This is a great video explaining the rule; https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VC-d1sJZ7bc

Also tell everyone u know to go comment, we need as much voices as possible!
