Title: Gamestop holders are few and far between....are they fvcking serious? I responded!

Author: ttterrana

Created 2022-05-14 00:21:33 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/up59lx/gamestop_holders_are_few_and_far_betweenare_they/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/gallery/up59lx

Update: Despite a broader market sell-off on a classic risk-off theme, GameStop Corp. jumped about 10% to settle a turbulent Thursday at $89.57. GameStop shares soared as much as 33% at one point during Thursday's trading and rebounded to $108.06 highs. The high volatility surrounding the GME stock triggered a halt to trading multiple times. The short squeeze in GME stocks came, as investors closed out their short positions after the meme coin hit two-month lows of $77.77 while they sought to fund their margin calls amid a meltdown in broader Wall Street indices.

GameStop (GME) holders are few and far between now as the retail army gets smaller by the day. The current environment has totally changed, and risk assets are not worth the effort. The Fed is largely responsible for inflating a massive risk asset bubble, and it may prove to be the biggest asset bubble in history – only time will tell.

GME shares are slumping in line with everything else, but the outlook remains

III O <

fxstreet1.typeform.com/to/TL

9. What kind of analysis content would you like to read?

Truthful analysis...not The bullshit you just printed about GME

