Title: "The only way to stop the exponential propagation of a COVID-like cyber threat is to fully disconnect the millions of vulnerable devices from one another and from the internet."
Author: dvsanon
Created 2021-07-18 05:07:31 UTC
Permalink: /r/Autisticats/comments/omk4z3/the_only_way_to_stop_the_exponential_propagation/
Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/Autisticats/comments/omk4z3/the_only_way_to_stop_the_exponential_propagation/

"The only way to stop the exponential propagation of a COVID-like cyber threat is to fully disconnect the millions of vulnerable devices from one another and from the internet."

I tried to post this earlier but I didn't realize z3ro h3dg3 posts are banned, well shadowbanned because it didn't tell me it was banned and I could see the post logged in, but not otherwise. Here is a pastebin with the link to the article https://pastebin.com/ebumWH6u The article is about a global cyber attack simulation and how it played out.

If they want to shut off the internet they just have to create a reason to justify it. If a threat is generated and the solution is to disconnect everyone from the internet, it would cause some level of panic. I am under the assumptions these simulations are not "in case" one happens, but more planning on how it will go down when they release it on us. World Economic Forum people have been telling us this year cyber attacks are a big threat. https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-0oZA1B3ooI The same people that did a global pandemic simulation in October of 2019, a month before china was exposed to covid. Maybe a coincidence but these people have a notoriously globalist agenda so what they do and say I wonder for what purpose.

Why would they shut the internet off on us? I have specific reasons, but mainly people are more and more turning away from mainstream media. The grip on what is actually truth is slipping from their hands, we are talking to each other online on social media and they can't keep silencing us and injecting liars among us to derail the truth and confuse people only works for so long. If this plays out they won't shut off the internet on day 1 either if you are thinking oh how can we panic sell with no internet, things will start getting impacted first, slow internet, websites and services going offline to protect themselves from the attack, etc. "The banking industry and companies within the realm of IT "demonstrated the highest resilience."", so markets will be up for you to panic sell. There will be a build up of fear, everyone needs to know it's happening and be watching it as panic sets in. Maybe, this is just a guess, when it finally comes back up it'll be a walled internet, like what china has? Four our protection from the internet worm.

I am one that likes to plan ahead, so I wonder if the Internet was temporarily(?) shut off what would I need? I have rainy day cash on hand, i have road maps if I do need to travel since I am so reliant on GPS normally, I have plenty of books and puzzles to keep me busy, and some offline movies(dvds, etc).

I am not trying to be an alarmist but if there is a panic of internet slowing to a crawl or websites/services getting chunked offline here and there to keep a worm from spreading (Think like the wannacry ransomware from 2017 but obviously more devices and faster spreading. https://techcrunch.com/2019/05/12/wannacry-two-years-on/) Would you still be able to HODL your GME? Even if fear was spreading and our gme was tanking? I will be able to, I hope you have a plan so you can too!

Edit: Just want to add another thought, after a panic in the markets maybe this is what finally triggers MOASS.